21 DAYS CHALLENGE

Focus Area

Learn to use props and mini activities to create a powerful hook in your story, making it more engaging and visually impactful.

Why Use Props and Mini Activities?

Visually Appealing: Props make your speech more interactive and engaging.

Immediate Engagement: Your audience connects with what you’re doing, keeping them interested.

Memorability: People remember visuals and actions better than just words.

Example: Using a Prop and Mini Activity

Prop: A notebook.

Activity: Tearing out pages to symbolize lost dreams.
How It Works:

1. Introduce the Prop: Hold the notebook and say, "This notebook represents my dreams."
2. Tear a Page: "This was my dream to finish my MBA. Gone." (Tear the page.)
3. Tear Another Page: "This was my Citibank career. Lost." (Tear the page.)

Each tear visually emphasizes the sacrifice of dreams, forging a powerful emotional connection with the audience.

Challenge Activity:
Your task is to create a short story using a prop and a mini activity. Here's how:

Pick a Prop: Choose something simple that symbolizes an important part of your story (e.g., a book, pen, or object).

Connect It to Your Story: Think about how the prop visually enhances your message.

Incorporate a Mini Activity: Perform a small action with the prop to add meaning (e.g., tearing pages, writing, drawing).

Practice: Make sure the prop and activity feel natural and flow with your speech.

Record Your Speech: Use the prop and activity during your speech and see how it engages your audience.

Conclusion:

Using a prop and mini activity can make your story more powerful and memorable. The more naturally it fits into your speech, the better. Choose your prop, plan your activity, and transform your storytelling.

Good luck, and happy storytelling!
